Hi to whom it may concern,

I'm from the state of Nevada (Las Vegas) I have been vacationing in the great state California for 9 years in the area of Happy Camp. My family and I have camp along the rivers up there for years panning, and suction dredging, and some sluicing. We have been using the water out of the rivers to wash our dishes for years.

being from Las Vegas we really understand how important the quality and the lack of water is. Please I don't think, dredging on the scale that is being done is gonna hurt the quality of water.

Thank you Dana Coffey
