The State Water Control Resource Board (SWRCB) proposal, Resolution 2010-, clearly overlaps the broader erosion control measures previously enacted by Sonoma County. Sonoma Creek is a part of the Sonoma County erosion control regulations. The Sonoma County program is a very active, cooperative and effective program supervised and supported by the Sonoma County Ag Commissioners Office. The program has worked effectively with the vineyard industry. Finally, the Sonoma County Regulations are achieving the intent of the proposed SWRCB Resolution 2010.

Therefore, I believe the State Water Resources Control Board proposal is unnecessary given the existing Sonoma County erosion control regulations. Eliminating the SWRCB Resolution 2010-, could reduce industry confusion, duplication of industry/government effort/cost, resulting in the best outcome for all.
